

Up & Coming

President's Letter

Hi everyone! I'm delighted to share a snapshot of some of our current and upcoming events and opportunities—all of which will continue to benefit our members and position RWN in the community as a growing professional influence and resource in the Rochester region.

The Leadership Luncheon Series and Panel this fall and the Business Conference this spring will provide us and our guests with, among other benefits, leadership guidance, professional development, business information and networking opportunities. The planning for our 30th anniversary and the Anniversary Gala in the fall of 2008 is underway. It's taking shape nicely and the planning committee is striving for an exciting balance between the business impact women have on our community and a unique and fun-filled celebration of RWN's success.

In addition, our very successful endeavor with the Democrat and Chronicle continues to highlight the caliber and expertise of our members. If you haven't already seen our exclusive column, check out the Sunday Business section's "Women at Work"! Thanks to those who have already contributed and to those who will contribute, as this underscores our diverse membership of leaders in our respective fields of expertise.

Along with the theme of our diversity, we'll continue to provide a variety of opportunities for you to network with other members and non-members, including casual and traditional business events throughout the year. And, remember that we can always count on the last Tuesday morning of every month to network informally with each other at Bruegger's in the city!

My heartfelt thanks to the close to 100 2007 RWN volunteers recognized in this U&C issue who have contributed their time and talents to RWN. You are amazing, and I hope you take pride in the present and future strength and uniqueness of our organization.

Until next time, enjoy.

Donna Rawady, RWN President

Are you a born leader, but not quite sure how to go about “hatching” your leadership potential? It can be frustrating to figure out your best path to success when you are in the middle in your workplace - - no longer a “newbie” but not yet a “sage.” Come hear the strategies, rough spots, and advice from a panel of four, successful professionals who can help you learn to Lead from the Middle to move you forward in your career. Our panelists, representing the worlds of business, education, administration, for-profits and not-for-profits, share common experiences and characteristics that have defined their success in evolving from the middle to the front of the pack in their careers (and communities!). Not always smooth sailing, our professionals will provide you with insight on how to:

- Leverage community service and civic engagement
- Manage competing work-home demands
- Build relationships that count
- Recover from poor choices
- Identify opportunities for professional growth in Rochester
- ... and much, much more.

Join us to glean wisdom and tips from our panelists:

Deborah D. Bastow - High Falls Advisors

Melva L. Brown - Rochester Educational Opportunity Center

Deb Koen - Career Development Services

Nydia Padilla-Rodriguez - Rochester City School District

As Deputy Mayor of the City of Rochester, Patricia Malgieri plays a pivotal role in addressing the issues, challenges and opportunities that face our community. Having led the Center for Governmental Research for a number of years prior to joining the Duffy Administration, Patty has a unique appreciation and a breadth of knowledge about municipal government as well as the history and attributes of the City and the surrounding region. Her leadership qualities and accomplishments are widely acknowledged, most recently as the recipient of the prestigious Athena Award by the Women's Council of the Rochester Business Alliance in 2007. Patty will share some of the leadership principles that have guided her professional career, and offer some thoughts on how the members of RWN can contribute to the issues confronting our community and become engaged in the resurgence of our regional economy.

What does it mean for the City of Rochester and the region to have one of the highest ranking women in the U.S. House of Representatives as our Congresswoman? At every stage of her life and career, Congresswoman Louise M. Slaughter has been an extraordinary role model and leader, breaking new ground and paving the way for women to achieve new heights of success. In January 2006, she became the first woman to chair the powerful House Rules Committee, where her influence impacts every piece of legislation that goes through Congress. During her more than 20 years as a member of Congress, Louise has championed critical issues related to health care, children, the arts, and education, in addition to women's issues. Join us to hear Congresswoman Slaughter share her perspectives on the challenges women professionals still face in the workplace, the impact of national issues on their personal and professional lives, and the principles and priorities that have contributed to her accomplished career.
