Powering The Economy Through Leadership And Innovation: Discovering What You Have That The Regional Economy Needs

Date: Friday, November 3, 2006
Time: 7:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Place: Rochester Riverside Convention Center
Cost: Full Day Conference — $150 Member/$180 Non-member

Where is the regional economy headed? What are the emerging business opportunities? What are the hot jobs for the future? Join us for the 11th Annual Business Conference to learn the answers and much more.

The Conference features timely and informative panel discussions presented by successful entrepreneurs, business and economic development and government officials, and educational specialists that will enable participants to learn where the regional economy is headed, how to take advantage of emerging opportunities, power the economy, and achieve success. Keynote speaker Gay Gilbert, Administrator for the United States Department of Labor, Employment and Training Administration's Office of Workforce Development, and point person for the WIRED Finger Lakes Partnership — a Federal initiative to help stimulate the regional economy — will discuss what the USDOL envisions for our region and provide the framework for the day. Maggie Brooks, Monroe County Executive, will offer her perspective on the opportunities that the WIRED initiative brings to our community. Robert Duffy, Mayor of the City of Rochester, will share his thoughts on implementing the ideas generated during the Conference. Throughout the day participants will have time to browse the Exhibitors' Marketplace, featuring professional products and services. At the end of the day, attendees will mix, mingle and enjoy the sounds of the Blue Avengers, featuring talented jazz vocalist, Alana Miller during the "Get Wired at the WIRED Hour" networking reception.

The Conference would not be complete without a presentation, during the luncheon, of the RWN Up and Coming Businesswomen's Awards to local women on the "fast track". Dee Alexander, WARM 101.3 Radio, will be Mistress of Ceremonies. In addition to the recognition ceremony, Germaine Knapp, President of Sojourner House and the 2006 RWN "W" Award recipient, will inspire us as she speaks about her professional experiences and provides insights into the hard work and dedication that led to her professional success.
